NO CONTRACT BROKEN.

THE argument is being advanced in some quarters that the men drafted into military service had a "contract" with the government that they would be released after twelve months.

This absurd contention carries little weight but because it might mislead some individuals we call attention to the fact that the Selective Service Act specified a "training and service period of twelve consecutive months" but provided that this period might be extended whenever Congress declared that "the national interest is imperiled."

This is what Congress is being asked to do. It amounts to no more than the recognition of what is taking place in the world and would not be the violation of any contract.

PLANNING FOR POWER.

THE proposal to increase the power plant capacity of the United States by about 9,000,000 kilowatts is extremely interesting in view of the contention a few years ago, that the nation was over-building hydro-electric plants.

The kilowatt capacity is now around 42,000,000,000. It does not seem to be enough as the Federal Power Commission intimates that its program includes expansion that will be undertaken regardless of the defense program.

What has become of the idea that the Tennessee Valley Authority was going to produce so much power that there would be no market? The scarcity that now exists, after enormous plants have been constructed, demonstrates that this argument was fallacious.

"BUSINESS AS USUAL."

Here's an interesting item concerning "business as usual."

Before the outbreak of the war in Europe United States government paid subsidies to steamship lines in order to enable them to compete with foreign ships.

Now that practically all foreign competition has been removed, the Maritime Commission suggests that the subsidies be revised downward to meet present conditions.

Some of the shipping companies have agreed readily but others insist that their subsidies should not be reduced.

TWO OUT OF 30,000!

NEARLY thirty thousand "ideas" have been submitted to the National Inventors' Council by Americans who think they have discovered some gadget or other that will be helpful to national defense.

It is reported that less than one hundred possessed merit and that only one or two were of "great importance."

The council continues anxious to hear from those who have suggestions to offer. If the idea is utilized, compensation will be made even if the matter is kept secret for purposes of defense.

AMERICAN NURSES DROWN.

IT seems probable that American Red Cross nurses have lost their lives while en route to Great Britain on an errand of mercy. They have been the victims of German submarines which sent the ships upon which they traveled to the bottom of the Atlantic.

What is strange about the tragic affair is that there has been but little public condemnation of Nazi brutality in connection with the death of these American women.

As a nation of people, seeking peace, we have gone a long way in our effort to avoid incidents that might lead to warfare.

A long-range bomber can fly from Iceland to Berlin in less than seven hours. It might interest Herr Hitler to learn that the United States plans to build 500 long-range bombers a month.

Peace is impossible unless nations have confidence in their mutual good faith and, as we see it, is assume to put any confidence in promises made by Germany, Italy or Japan.

It's been a long time since we said anything about it but that's no reason why the people of Bay St. Louis should neglect the important task of beautifying our "home town."

When the invasion of Russia began, more than six weeks ago, the question was whether the Russian army could stand up to the German soldiers. The anxious query has not yet been conclusively answered in the affirmative but it is, at least, sharing honors with a new one, asking whether the Nazi army, blitzkrieg and all, can inflict a crushing and decisive defeat upon the Russian army.

The Chinese have been battling four years for their independence, submitting to ceaseless pounding without showing the yellow feather and it's about time that the world in general gave the Chinese in particular a salute, recognizing their worthiness to live as a nation, and promising more attention to the needs of China than we have given her.

INFLATION MUST BE AVOIDED.

FRANKLY, we do not know whether the people of Hancock county have any idea of the havoc that can be wrought in this country if inflationary tendencies develop into a genuine booming of prices such as the nation witnessed during the World War era.

Those who were living after the end of that epic struggle, and especially individuals who had obligations can well remember the tragic episode that developed with deflation, applied in the summer of 1920. It is not too much to assert that the nation, and particularly our farmers, have never recovered from the beating that was taken then.

It is mighty easy to encourage rising prices, with speculators and nibbling citizens intrigued by sudden profits, but the aftermath will be a catastrophe that no one can contemplate philosophically after the earlier experience of the country.

Steps should be taken, immediately, to put an end to the dangerous game that is now underway. It will take resolution by Congressmen and officials to nip the blooming profits that entire pseudo-patriots, who talk glibly about national defense, but the long-run welfare of the country demands that every precaution be used to avoid the calamities that followed the 1920 debacle.

AIRCRAFT ERA DEVELOPING.

PROGRESSIVE thinkers in Hancock county have visualized for years the day when aircraft will be as numerous in the sky as automobiles are on the highways.

We are now on the verge of the airplane era. The airplane is pushing the automobile for first place in de luxe transportation. The contest is similar to the locomotive-auto race of a few decades ago.

While the airplane era has been gaining momentum rather slowly, the process will be speeded by the defense program, and especially the mass production plan of the Civil Aeronautics Administration for the training of pilots.

During the year ending on the first of July, last, the number of certified pilots in the United States increased by 100 per cent, with the total number of civilian pilots now exceeding 82,000.

On July 1st there were 22,025 certified airplanes in the United States, exclusive of military and naval aircraft. This is an increase of 58 per cent in the year.

The increase of airplanes is largely due to the pilot-training program of the CAA. A number of planes have been purchased for use in training and the new pilots have often purchased planes for their own use after learning to fly.

AVERAGE LIFE IS LONGER.

IT IS interesting to report that the average American now lives 62 years, six months, and enjoys the prospect of twelve extra years, as compared with the average American of 1900, according to figures of the Census Bureau.

This increased term of life does not mean that Americans as a race are living twelve years longer than their grand-parents. It means, among other things, that infant mortality has been greatly reduced. While expectancy has increased for those born in recent years, on the average, it does not necessarily follow that people live to riper ages.

An illustration will, we think, make this clear. Three children, born in 1880, can average fifty years if two live to be 75 years of age, although the other child died at the age of less than a year. By contrast, three children, born in 1941, can average 62.5 years if one lives to be seventy and the others live to be fifty-nine.

Even though the average life figures do not mean prolonged old age it does signify an improvement in the general health of the race. This is encouraging and may lead to increased longevity.

U. S. BOMBERS "THE BEST"

BRITISH reports indicate that American fighter planes are not quite up to the requirements of combat but they make no secret of their belief that United States bombers, both of medium and heavy types, seem to be about the best of their kind in the world.

Col. J. T. C. Moore-Brabazon, British Minister for Aircraft Production, points out some of the technical problems mastered to make many American planes superior, saying that as the war goes on, planes must fly higher and higher. He adds that the United States solved the problem of high-altitude fuel pressure, which had baffled both the British and the Germans.

The result, he asserted, is that the new bombers being supplied the British are capable of flights at altitudes hitherto considered impossible in combat zones except under the most hazardous conditions. Moreover, he adds, for the information of Americans, scores of these new bombers are "on hangar aprons all over his embattled island."

MR. WALSH IS RIGHT.

TOM WALSH, president of the Professional Golfers' Association, is on the right track when he demands that professional gamblers be barred from future tournaments.

He knows what happened to baseball until Commissioner Landis was employed and given a free hand to rid baseball after the famous Chicago White Sox scandal. He says that golfers "have built a reputation that our tournaments can be enjoyed by the public without mutuals or books and we don't want to see that reputation damaged."

The attitude of the public toward baseball, football, golf and horse racing varies with the first three sports having the respect and admiration of the public. The sport of kings, unfortunately, has been badly injured by the betting practices that seem to be inevitably associated with its operations.

A question as to the coming way to travel, whether by air, sea or land.

Many people say they will never board a ship again, but they will board a ship again.

Hollywood Echoes.

THE primary function of the motion picture screen, according to Will H. Hays, film czar, is entertainment. While informational, educational and inspirational elements in pictures are growing, Mr. Hays said, "When the public lays down its money at the box office, it is primarily for entertainment."

Interesting, to us at least, is the news that the production of major films is going on uninterrupted in England despite the air raids and all the accompanying war activity. "Hatter's Castle," Arthur Cronin's Edwardian melodrama is about completed. Robert Donat is to have the lead in "The Young Mr. Pitt" which is about to go into production, while Leslie Howard will soon produce, direct and play in the biography of R. B. Mitchell, inventor of the Spitfire. He is anxious to get David Niven, who is now in the Army, to co-star with him as the test pilot who flies the machines that Mitchell invented.

Actual scenes dealing with the actual fighting between England and the Axis will appear in "A Yank in the R. A. F." in which Tyrone Power appears as an American flyer who participates in the evacuation of Dunkerque. Footage shot from planes during combat has been shipped from England to Fox, with the cooperation of Lord Beaverbrook.

As a result of a deal signed with his widow, the life of James J. Corbett, the first world's heavyweight boxing champion to win his title under Marquis of Queensberry rules, will be brought to the screen by Warners. Errol Flynn will probably play the title role.

Ginger Rogers will take advantage of the clause in her contract with RKO which allows her one outside commitment to star in Ernst Lubitch's production of "A Self-Made Cinderella," at the Fox Studio. The story is that of "an American working girl who seeks romance." Imagine that!

The cast for the screen version of "The Man Who Came to Dinner" has finally been completed and, as announced is: Monty Woolley will have the title role, with Bette Davis, Anne Sheridan, Charles Drake, Reginald Gardner, Jimmy Durante, Grant Mitchell and others filling the various and sundry additional roles of the Broadway success.

As reported previously, there is a superfluity of promising young feminine bundles of pulchritude in Hollywood, but a distressing lack of broad-chested, bass-voiced heroes. Asked for a list of their two leading young players, five studios named ten, as follows: Paramount, Eva Gabor and Frances Gifford; Twentieth Century-Fox, Cobina Wright, Jr., and Sheila Ryan; MGM, Kathryn Grayson and Risa Stevens; Warner Brothers, Elizabeth Fraser and Alexis Smith; Columbia, Janet Blair and Patti McCarthy. There's not a boy among the lot.

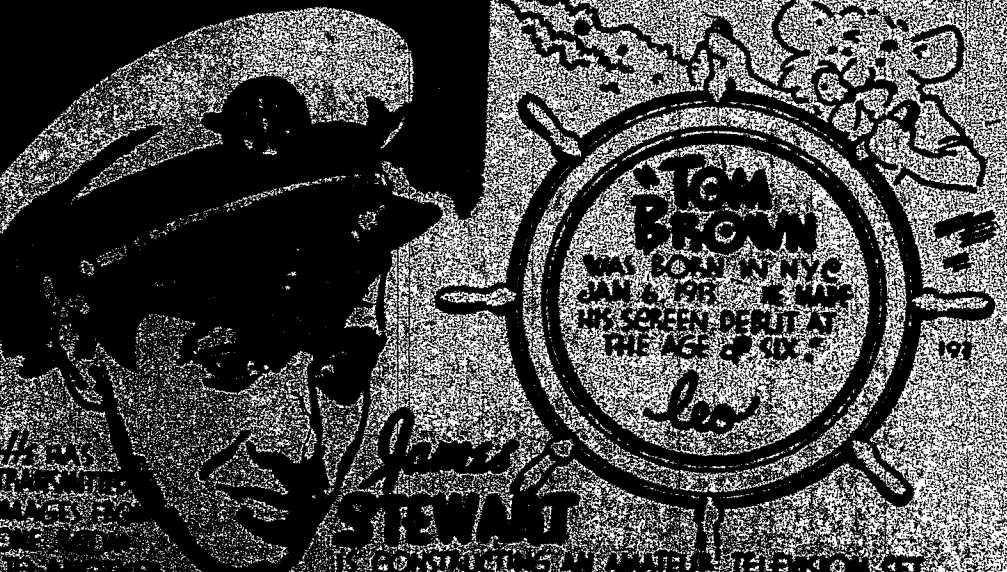

Marlene Dietrich and Fred MacMurray will be seen together in a comedy by James Edward Grant, "Miss Madden Is Willing," to be produced by Columbia.

Billy Conn, who recently gave such a good account of himself in his fight against Joe Louis, heavyweight boxing champion, will make his screen debut in "The Pittsburgh Kid," the story of his life. Jean Parker will have the feminine lead.

The governor has the power to reduce the state ad valorem tax when it is found that tax collections will justify such a reduction. The present six mill tax should be reduced to four mills, and possibly to two mills.

With The Press.

THE FORGOTTEN NEWSPAPER

(Playboy, Mass. Item.)
WE deal with the problems of the weekly newspaper because that is the only class of publication we know anything about. We take it from the mortality rate of the daily papers over the country they must have their problems also.

We do not believe there is a more patriotic bunch of men and women in the world than the publishers of the weekly papers. They are local in scope and are just as vital to the social, economic and progressive problems of the communities they serve as the schools, churches, lodges and clubs. In fact all these feed sumptuously off the local paper. All these are subsidized and non-taxed, and we admit non-profit sharing organizations in the sense of commercial profits. We are not complaining, that is a part of our American way of life which we think is the greatest way of life.

If a man ever started a weekly paper with the idea of making money, he was the most disillusioned of all men, unless he got into the racketeering business. We do not mean to say those who have made a moderate success have resorted to questionable methods, for there has been a time the weekly paper could be run in connection with commercial printing plants and the plant would earn a small profit. Those days are gone.

We are not at war as yet, but when organizing and utilizing national resources are concerned, we can see little difference between total emergency and total war, if that term is clear.

We have lived through one war; we are now struggling in one emergency. While the government expected the weekly press to do its part during the first World War, and of our knowledge every Mississippi paper did its part, provisions were made for the weekly paper to survive.

In this emergency, the demands on the weekly paper are trying to deliver under the staggering load they are being asked to carry.

All during the depression the weekly papers have in a large degree supported measures of rehabilitation and gave liberal-ly of their time and space in the support of administration policies, even though, many times the wisdom of these, or some of these policies were doubtful as recovery measures.

In every mail, we receive an arm load of franked mail from more branches of the government than we thought ever existed. One department is just as important, or more so, in the mind of its administrator, as any other, and we do not argue the point, but the point we do raise is the imposition upon the weekly press to publish all this information without making some provision for at least payroll and machinery maintenance while it is going on.

During the World War when the newspapers were just as important for dissemination of information as they are today, the government heads were practical enough to know that publishing plants represented the investment of private capital and as such should at least have a reasonable return on the investment. To make this possible, advertising experts were employed to draw up patriotic advertisements to be underwritten by merchants and other business concerns. These were

Watered Stock

THIS PHRASE, MEANING TO ISSUE ADDITIONAL STOCK IN A COMPANY WITHOUT ADDING TO ITS ASSETS, HAD ITS ORIGIN IN THE EARLY HABIT OF DISHONEST CATTLE RAISERS WHO FED SALT TO THE ANIMALS TO CAUSE THEM TO DRINK MUCH WATER BEFORE WEIGHING.

You never miss the water till the well runs dry. And you may not miss the rent money until you realize that it should be buying a home through a mortgage loan made by this bank.

POPULAR MEDICO

Dr. Kildare would probably win any poll as to the country's best doctor. He is carrying on his stellar characterization of Dr. Kildare in the new MGM-May release, "The People vs. Dr. Kildare."

sent out with their releases, and as a result the general public has a part in information propagation which added to its influencing power. Now, the post office department and newspapers are carrying the load.

If we were to publish 25 per cent of the franked requests that come to us for publication it would require the entire productive capacity of our plant and force, leaving no time for private work for expenses: Imagine a sawmill being asked to devote its time and its products without pay. What would a merchant think if requested to have his clerks wrap up his goods day by day and deliver them in his trade territory without pay for them? Sounds unreasonable doesn't it? That very thing is being done to the weekly press of the country and just how long it will continue will depend on how much money the editor has and how big a fool he is.

DANGEROUS THINKING.

The following is a statement made by a man in the Clarksdale Register.

"Our national debt can never be paid and our only recourse is to repudiate it. Government bonds are held only by the very rich, who are able to stand the loss. The poor and the middle class will not be harmed by repudiation. Relieved from the burden of debt taxes could be reduced and our country would enjoy an era of unexampled prosperity."

Our nation today has too much of this kind of thinking, thinking that is undemocratic, unsound, untrue, unfair and downright dishonest.

In the first place government bonds are not held by the rich alone. There are many widows' savings tied up in the commitments of Uncle Sam. In the second place if the government bonds were repudiated every man, woman and child would feel the impact of the crash.

No government can stand except upon the principles of honesty, integrity and any citizen who would suggest that his government accept the code of gangsters is not worthy of citizenship in this great republic.

Father Nelius Downing Writes Master Letter To Soldiers In Camp.

Rev. Father Nelius Downing has addressed the following letter to soldiers in camp. It is a fine spirit:

I am deeply proud of your promotion and I am praying that you will continue to be promoted.

I would wish that all our boys in the Armies of the United States could get the fact engraven in their hearts: that it is a high honor to be a soldier or sailor of our beloved United States.

We are not only the arsenal, the supplies, stores of Democracy everywhere; but we are, under Almighty God, the Crusaders of Liberty, of Honor, of Justice, of Freedom of every kind; but we are also the Champions of the dignity of every human being, high, low, rich and poor.

An American soldier differs from every other soldier in the world, in the fact that he is not mere conscript, no hired assassin, no common murderer; but the American sailor or soldier is the living fighting symbol of all the nobles, the most decent conception of our human kind.

We Americans seek no gold, no territory, no special place or power, but we do demand our own security and the security of all peoples, great and small, against the wilful aggression of any nation, any race, any people, any government, or any upstart faction of any country—that dare to want only to destroy their God-given right to Liberty.

Our great President has shown the way to the whole world. We cannot fully realize the terrible fact of our own isolation; on all sides we are menaced by foes that have declared their dire purpose. Like all Democracies, we have been tardy in preparation. Now, we start late; but please God, not too late. In fighting for America, we are fighting for God; we are on the "side of the angels"; we are fighting for Justice, Charity, for Honor, for Decency, for Fair Play for all that lies nearest to our hearts. We are fighting for God's greatest people and Country, Americans and America.

That you are a soldier of so exalted a purpose and so noble a people, is a grace of Almighty God. I have written your parents. God Bless you always.

"LOVE CRAZY" WITH POWELL AND LOY AT A. & G. SUN-MONDAY

Comedy Team Steps Down From Polite Comedy to Slapstick Tactics Up To Their Necks.

The comedy team of William Powell and Myrna Loy herewith step down from the pinnacle of polite comedy on which they have prospered and profited exhibitors and plunge into the field of slapstick up to their necks. That they take the plunge successfully would seem to be indicated by the reaction of a preview audience which laughed often and loudly at their cavorting in situations old when Mack Sennett was young.

Into this Pandora W. Berman production have been poured most of the staples of slapstick comedy popular on radio and screen. In the first place, the team is replaced by the footlights. After a start in the vein of modern humor for which the stars are known, the story moves into an insane asylum for a liberal use of the type of eggs identified with that setting since the first playwright discovered that a variety of sane people regard lunatics as funny. It moved thence to an apartment house wherein the supposed lunatic having escaped, and eluding recapture, dons feminine attire and explores the "Charley's Aunt" class of comedy to the fullest. All this follows (see Product Digest, page 121) upon a husband's being advised by his lawyer to feign lunacy as a means of postponing his wife's suit for divorce.

In his direction of the picture Jack Conway stressed speed, action and situation above dialogue for laughs, the loudest of which greets an elevator sequence in which Powell goes back to his beginnings as a slapstick comedian in short features. Typical of the picture in whole is the running gag used throughout which as the principals in turn slipping on a rug on a polished floor for what the profession calls pratfalls.

Previewed at the Academy Theatre, a playhouse on the rim of Los Angeles seldom used for previews, where it ran up a high gross of laughs interpreted by press and profession present as indicating that the Powell-Loy combination is as dependable in the field of physical comedy as otherwise—W. R. W.

REDUCE STATE TAXES.

Mississippi completed its fiscal year June 30th with three million dollars surplus. This means that there should be a reduction in the state ad valorem taxes. There is no need of the state collecting more taxes than is necessary to meet existing expenses.

Congressional Sidelights

Congressman Wm. M. Colmer

This week the House of Representatives is devoting its time to the consideration of the new tax bill. The Ways and Means Committee of the House, after some three months of hearings and consideration, has reported the troublesome tax bill to the full House. Taxes are always a source of trouble for the legislature, whether it be the village alderman, the county board of supervisors, the state legislature or the national Congress. The ever-increasing tax rate to meet the ever-increasing expenditures is always perplexing. The present tax bill does not differ greatly from its predecessors. It merely increases the rates and makes the burden of the tax payer heavier. That the increase in taxes is necessary is evident to all, that the rates and the consequent taxes are going to increase in each successive year is equally evident. As a matter of fact, the present tax bill is high as it will fall far short of being adequate to meet the expenditures which are being made. As a matter of fact, the present rate of taxes would just meet the normal expenditures to pay the cost of operating the various governmental agencies. When the stupendous sums which are daily being appropriated for national defense are considered, it is quite obvious that there will be a considerable deficit. That these expenditures for national defense are necessary is beyond question; that the people of the United States should curtail the expenditures for and the operation of other departments of the government is equally obvious. The Government has for a period of the past decade been appropriating funds far beyond its income in fighting the depression. With the increased national income as a result of the defense program, it does seem that these extra appropriations for many of the New Deal agencies should be curtailed. One thing stands out above everything else as a result of this tax bill, and that is that the people of America will pay their taxes next year will have to pay more than they have now. Uncle Sam after all is not Santa Claus; that the national government, like the state and other subdivisions of the government, must tax the people in order to get the money which it spends. Out of it all should come a stern realization on the part of the American people that in order to dance the fiddler must be paid. With this realization the American people should be on the alert, guarding against waste and extravagance of governmental funds. They should watch for graft and extravagance in governmental defense projects and all other governmental expenditures and report them wherever found to the Government.

Sixty American Expeditionary Forces.

The occupation last year and this of bases on British Western Hemisphere possessions and of Greenland and Iceland caused considerable excitement. As a matter of fact, however, the use of American troops outside of continental United States is nothing new. During the past forty years sixty military expeditions have been sent to foreign countries, though war was declared only twice during that period. There have been twenty-two landings on Chinese soil alone, and we have a considerable force there today. At one time or another during the past forty years, American troops have been sent to the following: China, Philippines, Mexico, Panama, Cuba, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama, Cuba, Haiti, Dominican Republic, Smyrna, Europe, Russia, in addition to the recent occupation of the land-leases bases—Greenland and Iceland.

BLONDIE ON A BUDGET AT ORTIE THEATRE ON TUESDAY, AUGUST 5.

One Day Only—Rita Hayworth Shares Honors with Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake.

A star by any other name would probably still be a star, if Rita Hayworth is an example. Scoring solidly in two recent roles, the second feminine lead in "Only Angels Have Wings" starring Cary Grant and Jean Arthur, and the lead in "Music in My Heart" which marked the return of Tony Martin to the screen, the vivacious, startlingly pretty brunette is rapidly climbing up to the top of her second professional career, just as she had rapidly reached the top in another entertainment field.

An international 11 y famous Spanish dancer, Margarita Carrasco, third generation star and head of the illustrious Spanish dancing family, Maturing into a young woman of extraordinary beauty and ability, Rita headlined vaudeville and music halls all over America and Europe.

Now, as Rita Hayworth, her name again in the marquee lights, but this time as a film actress. She is currently to be seen at the Ortie Theatre with Arthur Lake and Penny Singleton in Columbia's "Blondie on a Budget," newest in the hilarious musical family series.

Miss Hayworth's decision to abandon her dancing career came shortly after her sensational engagement at Agua Caliente, in California, where she was held over for 25 consecutive months. When she left, to be featured in prologues at Hollywood's Carthy Circle Theatre.

WALKER WOOD SECRETARY OF STATE

MOTOR Vehicle Commissioner

Frank F. Mize has just filed his biennial report for that department as required by Chapter 88 of the Code of 1930. The total gas and oil tax collections for the biennial ending June 30, 1941 was $26,243,577.19 against $22,858,160.69 for the preceding two years. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1941 there were sold by the sheriffs throughout the state 259,580 tags for automobiles and trucks of 1 1/2 tons capacity and less. Tags for trucks of a greater capacity than 1 1/2 tons capacity are not sold by the sheriffs but are sold by the commission itself direct to the user and are not included in the above figures. From the sale of tags for the above fiscal year there was turned over to the various counties of the state $895,308.17 and to the State Highway Department $268,884.25, to be used on the public roads in Mississippi.

The Mississippi Federation of Labor held its annual convention in Meridian, beginning July 15. Resolutions deploring the passing of Senator Harrison, declaring solidarity with and complete sympathy for British fellow workers; pledging unlimited patriotic support in the national defense program; suggestions to locals to hold initiation fees to a minimum; full aid to the British people and requesting the Legislature to establish a state department of labor were passed. The body also went on record in favor of a no-strike policy, and pledging a renewed effort on the part of the membership to co-operate with the President of the United States.

With approximately 2,000 Legionnaires and members of the Auxiliary registered the 23rd annual convention of the Mississippi Department of the American Legion closed its three-day convention at the Community House in Gulfport Thursday, July 25. The principal theme of the convention was co-operation with the federal government to civilian defense.

While Dutch clover seed grown in Warren county, Mississippi will be used in seeding lawns, parks, golf courses and pastures in California and other Pacific coast states this fall. The sale was made by local farmers and approximated 15,000 pounds, representing an average return of about $80 per acre on the harvested clover acreage.

The Board of Trustees of The Jefferson Davis Beaufort Soldiers Home has just filed its biennial report for the year ending June 30, 1941. The report shows that the home has received a total of $1,000,000 in contributions from the public and the federal government, and that the home has expended $800,000 in operating expenses.

islature the appropriation was reduced $18,000.00 under the previous appropriation, the institution had operated well within the amount allotted. The monthly average number of inmates in the home for the period was sixty.

The July issue of the Public Safety magazine states that America's rising traffic toll shot up even more sharply in May. The May death total of 3,000 represented a 20 per cent increase over the 2,500 lives lost in the same month last year. In the first five months of this year the nation's traffic has taken a toll of 13,780 lives. In the same period last year 11,790 were killed, so this year's first five-month total is almost 2,000 deaths greater, an increase of 17 per cent.

State Treasurer Lewis May has filed the biennial report for that department as required by the statute. The report is voluminous, dealing with a large array of figures. The report that there was in the treasury at the beginning of the biennium on July 1, 1939 $13,235,679.69; that collections from all sources for the year ending June 30, 1940 were $55,139,725.31 and for the year ending June 30, 1941 collections were $55,650,637.24. Expenditures for the year ending June 30, 1940 were $59,187,072.02 and for the year ending June 30, 1941 they were $53,247,536.52 leaving a balance in the Treasury on July 1, 1941, to the credit of all accounts of $9,591,433.70.

Among them are Tassels on her Boots, by Arthur Train; To Sing With the Angels, by Hindus; A River to Cross, by Burman; As I Remember Him, by Zisser; Tanager, by Ransody; by Harding; Magic Mountain, by Mann; and many others.

Quite a number have already been put in circulation and the work of putting them together is going forth rapidly.
